Up Front - Annual Appeal for Support

Albert LeCoff

A message from Albert LeCoff, Executive Director of the Wood Turning Center

From the locality of your computer, you can make things happen... globally...

In 2009 the Wood Turning Center enters its 23rd year as a non-profit focused on education, preservation and promotion of the exciting evolving field of wood art.

Never have the challenges of running a nonprofit (or a household) in the face of the global slump looked so huge! Whether you are an artist, collector, curator, ITE resident, teacher, student, trustee or wood turner - we need you - to support the spirit and content that the Center’s programs and web site bring into your life.

First - the Board of Trustees thanks you for your ongoing membership support and donations. Membership, grants and contributions made all our 2008 programs possible.

Now we ask you to include the Wood Turning Center on your SHORT LIST for the end of 2008, and if your membership has lapsed to renew before the year is out. Your personal short list launches 2009... AND tax deductions.

Help us finish matching our $125,000 challenge grant for 2008 from Help launch these programs for 2009:

Challenge VII: dysFUNctional Exhibition Tour
to art museums and university art galleries

Art of Opening: Corkscrews and Bottle Stoppers

Selections from the Collection:
Donations by Bruce Kaiser & Joe Seltzer

2009 International Turning Exchange (ITE) residency

allTURNatives: Form & Spirit 2009 (ITE exhibit)

Hands on wood turning classes for area schools

These endeavors, based in Philadelphia, reach out globally.

Please bring your friends into the fold to expand the Center's circle of friends. The trustees and the staff thank you in advance, and we hope to see you at many wood art events in 2009.

Best wishes for the new year.

Albert LeCoff

STAFF NEWS

Suzanne Kopko Moves On...
Thank You and best wishes to Suzanne who moves on after 3 years as the Center's multi-skilled Director of Exhibitions and Collections. You've probably received some of the thousands of emails, letters, loan forms, CDs and packets she has sent to artists, collectors, curators and friends over the years. During her tenure, Suzanne implemented electronic organization of the Center's exhibits, incoming photographs and the permanent collection - major miracles with lasting value. She also trained a series of interns from regional universities, and provided guidance and broad expertise to contractors, graphic designers, haulers, installers, photographers, web masters and staff members. In the process, Suzanne became a great ambassador for wood art and we will miss her.

Welcome to Ron Humbertson
Ron will be the Center's new Exhibitions and Collections Coordinator. A fairly recent transplant to Philadelphia from San Francisco, Ron comes to the Center with training and experience in museums, galleries, collections management, and nonprofits. We hope you will welcome Ron as he takes over the Center's varied exhibitions and collections programs.
PUBLICITY FEATURES CENTER

American Craft Magazine - a Spring 2009 issue will feature Philadelphia, including the Center. Photographer Adam Wallacavage already completed the photo shoot.

HONORS
Fleur Bresler, art collector and advocate of Rockville, MD, was awarded a Special Lifetime Achievement Award in the Arts from the Arts & Humanities Council of Montgomery County, Maryland. She was also honored by VisArts of Rockville MD for her lifetime of involvement in the arts. VisArts is a nonprofit specializing in contemporary arts and classes that Fleur and Charlie helped fund and build. The Center donated 200 books to the special gala in Fleur's honor. Fleur was president of the Center's Board of Trustees for five years. Congratulations Fleur!

A Marquetry Odyssey:

Historical Objects and Personal Work
By Silas Kopf, Hudson Hills Press © 2008

Profuse photographs and encyclopedia-scope knowledge make this a milestone coffee table book. Kopf covers marquetry in timeless cultures (i.e. Egypt, Greece and Rome, France, England, Austria), stylistic periods, and specific masters through time. The illustrations include Kopf's distinctive work and (unbelievably!) a how-to section!

Craft Furniture Philadelphia: A continuing legacy

Gala and Special exhibit at the Philadelphia Invitational Furniture Show benefiting the Wood Turning Center, The Wharton Esherick Museum and The Legacy Fund of the University of the Arts Wood Program.

We will be celebrating the pivotal role of the Philadelphia area in the post-World War II craft-furniture renaissance with a party, talk and special exhibit.

Mark Sfirri, wood turner and professor at Bucks County Community College will give an illustrated talk on the many contributions made by area artisans to the development of studio furniture. His talk will be followed by comments from Mira Nakashima of George Nakashima Wood Studio and Bob Aibel of Moderne Gallery. Bob Aibel will be curating a special exhibit featuring the work of Nakashima, Esherick, Jackson and other regional masters of the genre.

There will also be a special exhibit of work by area High School Students curated by Don Miller of University of the Arts.

Come for light dinner, cash bar, and stimulating conversation.

Tickets for the Gala entitle you to weekend long access to the show.

For ticket prices and to make reservations, see the Furniture Show's website at www.PhilaIFS.com in the near future.
